The case of Chicago vs. Tyrrel against Abner C. Goodell, in the Superior Court, for the recovery of $10,000 in the form of damages for the alienation of affections of the plaintiff's wife, Mrs. Tyrrel, was on trial before Judge Van Buren and a jury for the greater part of last week. It was known to readers of the Tribune that a bill of exceptions had been filed by the defendant's counsel, and that was made the ground of appeal to the Supreme Court. The bill is as follows:

[illegible] Court, June 10, 1869.

Be it remembered, that on the trial of this cause, which was commenced on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1869, and which continued from day to day thereafter, until the 11th day of June, A. D. 1869, when the jury rendered their verdict, the following proceedings were had, to wit:

The plaintiff, to maintain the issues on his part, introduced evidence tending to show that the defendant, Abner C. Goodell, was a married man, and had a wife living at the time of the commencement of this suit, and that the plaintiff was also a married man, and had a wife living at the time of the commencement of this suit, and that the defendant, Abner C. Goodell, had, prior to the commencement of this suit, alienated the affections of the wife of the plaintiff, Mrs. Tyrrel, from the plaintiff, and had induced her to leave the plaintiff's house and bed, and to live with the defendant as his wife, and that the defendant had, by means of such alienation of affections, and by means of such inducements, induced the said Mrs. Tyrrel to leave the plaintiff's house and bed, and to live with the defendant as his wife, and that the defendant had, by means of such alienation of affections, and by means of such inducements, induced the said Mrs. Tyrrel

Persons desiring to witness the great game on hand at Union Park, promptly afternoon, at 3 o'clock, should be on hand at Ogden Park, promptly afternoon, at 2 o'clock, as the Rockford boys will be on hand at that time. Let all who can, be present, as it will be worth seeing, as proposed that the clubs were very evenly matched, and the game will be a close one, requiring nice batting and fielding. The members of both clubs are requested to be present, as there will be some business to transact. Per order, JAMES BOLAND, Secretary.

The Rockford Forest City Club, of Rockford, Ill., will be down to-day to play the Prairie Avenue Club, of this city, for the championship of Chicago. The game will be worth seeing, as proposed that the clubs were very evenly matched, and the game will be a close one, requiring nice batting and fielding. The members of both clubs are requested to be present, as there will be some business to transact. Per order, JAMES BOLAND, Secretary.

The New York papers are divided on the question of the championship. Some claim the Atlantics of Brooklyn, and others the Mutuals of New York. The Atlantics made a good struggle for it, it seems, but were beaten at last by a score of 25 to 24.

The Forest City nine have brought out a challenge, which we publish elsewhere. They have been playing a very good game, and will probably succeed in getting a match at Union Park, on Friday and Saturday.
